Waynetown, Indiana

The Town of Waynetown is located in Montgomery County in Central Indiana. The utility was established in 1913 and currently serves 440 meters, providing electric, water, wastewater, and sanitation.

IMEA and Waynetown Municipal Utilities would like to welcome their new superintendent, John Warren. John has worked with Waynetown Municipal Utilities for three years and recently promoted to utility superintendent.

When asked what were three key elements of the growth and sustainability of a municipal utility, John stated public relations with both his customers and the community are extremely important. He also believes that Safety and Education for him and his staff ensures that work is done safely, increases efficiency and improves employee morale.
