MOTHERS DAY TRIBUTE TO WOMEN IN PUBLIC POWER

Women represent an increasing share of Indiana Municipalities and surrounding states, and not just in traditional roles of the past. As you look around your public power utilities, you'll find women in many roles—from lineworkers to engineers to financial managers and in top leadership roles. Presently, the industry has embraced women in public power in every aspect. IMEA Board of Directors and staff would like to honor these accomplishments of the many women transforming public power utilities and serving their local communities. Wishing each of you a joyful weekend celebrating you and your families.

Careers in Public Power

Public power is more to communities than just an essential utility. It is a source of unique and fulfilling career opportunities in your local community. Employees make a difference by serving their own neighborhoods and families. Talented high school, college and technical college graduates and even technology, environmental and public service professionals will find that competitive salaries aren't the only thing attractive about careers in public power.
