

Set the Zone for Success

Proper setup of the work zone is critical to protecting everyone on site. Ensure cones, signs, and barricades are placed according to standards to give drivers enough warning and guidance. Before beginning work, double-check traffic control measures and confirm that flaggers are in position and attentive. A well-organized work zone not only protects linemen but also reduces confusion for motorists, lowering the risk of accidents.