

Housekeeping and Work Area Safety

Maintaining a clean and organized work area is critical to preventing injuries and ensuring efficient operations. All personnel are responsible for keeping tools, materials, and cables properly stored to eliminate trip hazards and obstructions. Waste materials and scrap should be removed regularly and disposed of in designated containers. Access to exits, electrical panels, and emergency equipment must remain clear at all times. Good housekeeping improves safety, productivity, and overall job site conditions.